

Bachelor of Social Work

Social Justice and Service As part of St. Ambrose University's commitment to social justice and service to others, we developed a unique academic pathway that allows students to earn a Bachelor of Social Work (BSW) and a second undergraduate degree in Psychology, Sociology, or Women and Gender Studies at the same time.

A History of Engagement At St. Ambrose, our roots in social justice run deep. We take action, in and out of the classroom. From advocating for the rights of labor and migrant workers in the 1930s, to Catholic social action and civil rights movement in the 1950s, to the current issues of economic and racial inequality, St. Ambrose students, faculty, staff and alumni have a rich history of engagement and taking action to make our world a better place.

Advocates for Empowerment An education in social work at St. Ambrose University emphasizes social justice and empowerment practice at all system levels.

The BSW dual degree program prepares students to be social workers with a rich liberal arts base providing strong critical thinking, analytic, and communication skills who enrich lives and advocate for a just society through an empowerment lens. This is a value-added skill set, highly sought by employers.

In-demand Careers The U.S. Department of Labor Statistics estimates the need for social work professionals will grow 16 percent by 2026, with high demand in healthcare and social service related fields.

A Clear Plan Students who earn a BSW can apply for advanced standing in most MSW programs, including the MSW program at SAU. This saves students time and money.

BSW Program Features

- > Apply to the BSW program during your sophomore year while completing a dual degree in Psychology, Sociology, or Women and Gender Studies. High school seniors who demonstrate strong academic performance can qualify for early admission to this program.
- > Our BSW is 32-credit hours and includes a culminating experience and internship. Internship and field experience opportunities will allow students to apply, refine, and integrate knowledge acquired in the classroom with experiences in social service agencies.

Dual Degree Majors

- Psychology Psychology majors benefit from unique coursework on mental health, developmental and social influences on human behavior, and how the brain functions. This provides a solid foundation for developing skills that social workers need when assessing and counseling clients, and offers extra insight into client issues and motivations.
- Sociology The Sociology major equips students with the ability to demonstrate respect and empathy for persons from diverse cultures and backgrounds, and to propose solutions to social problems reflecting principles of equality and social justice.
- Women and Gender Studies Individuals interested in justice, counseling and community activism find that the Women and Gender Studies major provides a framework for supporting human rights by working with people, locally and globally, and for being strong social justice advocates, which resonates strongly with the mission of social work.
